seoulmama

Feb 23

URL: HTTPS://WWW.TUMBLR.COM/SEOULMAMA/809390144610304000/WARNING

(TW: Discussions of SA, severe mental health issues, and other related topics. Discussions of Milo and service animals.)

[Viewer Discretion is Advised]

⚠️WARNING:⚠️

It's generally not appropriate to speculate about someone's mental health, so I'll keep most of my thoughts to myself. I do need to address one condition he's reportedly developed, which I'll cover in a separate post. For now, I'm sharing what I've found. It speaks for itself.

Edited: The last time I checked his twitter was last week. It seems he did some house keeping and deleted most of his service animal posts. I'll post what I have and link where possible. Half of this post was written weeks ago.

Milo started looking to fund his service dog on Twitter (here) and it was fully funded (here). I'm going to be working a bit backwards, so bare with me.

The conditions he allegedly had in 2023 were: PTSD, ADHD, Dissociative disorder, and OCD, (here).

Additionally, by 2024/2025, he allegedly had: ASD, ADHD, PTSD, hyperphantasia, and agoraphobia. He mentioned also being psychic, a mandaptive and lucid dreamer...where he said he entered Gardian.

There was another condition Milo and/or Sauli mentioned Milo having, but I can't find that post anymore. I remember that post had a drawn picture of Sauli putting a blanket over Milo. If you have that screenshot, please let me know. It directly contradicts a statement Milo put out during his fundraising period.

His World of Gardian account only mentioned two of these conditions (ADHD and ASD) in 2025. So, I went back and checked all of his 2021 and 2022 videos but there was nothing mentioned in those videos. Only in his 2023 and 2024 videos is where there were new conditions mentioned.

This is mostly because Milo kept those discussions primarily on his, now deleted, service animal TikTok page and his twitter in 2023:

His twitter is located: (here)

Videos of his TikTok service animal page are located on Tebbysweet's TikTok page: (here)

I'm fully aware people may receive diagnoses with more conditions later on in life, but I'm going to need you to hold that thought for now.

🔶🔶🔶🔶🔶🔶🔶🔶🔶🔶🔶🔶

When I set out to look more closely at Smidge, Milo's service animal, I stumbled across a post on a service animal page called Diggity Dog Service Dogs through google.

The page came up by simply searching Milo's old service animal page's name, with his surname added.

Milo's post on Diggity Dog Service Dogs (DDSD):

⚠️TW: Descriptions of sexual assault.⚠️

Hello, my name is [redacted]. I am in my twenties and I am suffering with Post Traumatic Stress Disorder. I had been a very healthy girl most of my life. Unfortunately, in college, I was sexually assaulted and held against my will for many hours. Those hours were filled with the worst things a human being can go through. I have had to let go of the girl I used to be and come to terms with the fact that I can not have her back. The only thing I seek to do is move forward to finding peace and open my heart to the beauty of living.

It is very hard for me to ask for help, I have always felt timid about doing so. I was raised to make my own way and be independent. It took even longer for me to understand that a service dog is what I need. Medication just has not done well in my body due to my low blood pressure. Therpay has helped but I need to feel safe while in grocery stores and new environments. I brave it out most of the time but I come home exhausted after over-analyzinging my surroundings and new people all day.

My support comes from my close friends and family. I have an incredible group to rely on and my cat to hold when the days get rough. I have loved writing poetry for many years. It has been my shelter and safe place during this time. A place I created, the only place I truly feel I have control. I hike and run, movement has been my source of restorment.

I will also tell you that I looked at a mountain in the midst of my own sorrow. I looked at a mountain and I felt so small and insignificant and it was the most alive I had felt in my entire life. I looked at the swelling of the earth in awe. I began running, running until

Our Cost

A service dog program fee of $26,800 is required in order to receive a dog.

*The actual cost of producing each service dog placed is $50,000-$70,000, however, such a cost would be prohibitive for many in need. In an effort to make Diggity service dogs more accessible to those in need, Diggity only passes on $26,800 of that cost to the clients. Fundraising and payment plans are available. Please see below for more information.

Our Process

1) Application

Application and $100 application fee are received by us and we contact you within two business days to set up a phone interview.

2) Interview

Phone interview during which the whole program is explained in great detail from start to finish and we answer all the questions you may have. Afterwards we send you an information packet and medical history form..

3) Medical History Submission

Applicant gets medical history forms to providers (therapist, psychiatrist etc..) and they fill it out and send it back to us. Applicant also secures a letter of support from someone in their life and sends this to us.

4) Medical History Review

We receive and review the medical history form and then contact your provider(s) to set up a medical consult. We then do a medical consult with your provider.

You can read it in its entirety linked above. Important information is highlighted in red and yellow. This wasn't for Smidge, but for another service dog. I included DDSD's medical history requirements.

Which Milo DID NOT have:

I looked into Colorado State University's healthcare policies: CSU Health Network:

been increased incidences of inappropriate referrals. This has resulted in greater pushback from local housing authorities and state regulatory agencies who are requesting higher levels of accountability from practitioners. Alongside this, there have been instances of practitioners' expertise in making such evaluations being called into question by state regulatory agencies. Moreover, putting the therapist in the role of an evaluator runs the risk of interfering with the therapeutic process.

In light of this professional and regulatory guidance, CSU Health Network does not provide letters of support and referral for students seeking to make use of ESAs and Psychiatric Service Dogs.

We recommend that students seeking a letter of support and referral for an ESA or Psychiatric Service Dog seek a disability evaluation from a provider licensed in the state of Colorado with the recommended training and experience.

They don't provide the letters because people would misuse their services to get animals they did not need.

So, Milo switched to Errorless Service Dog LLC and his TikTok account was linked in the service's TikTok,(here).

I checked Errorless' website and there were no requirement for a doctor's note that I could find, here.

Milo then updated his Goodfundme to include information about Smidge.

⚠️TW: Descriptions of sexual assault.⚠️

⚠️TW: Descriptions of sexual assault.⚠️

https://www.gofundme.com/f/help-sa...

Donation protected

My name is [redacted] and I am an abuse survivor diagnosed with severe Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder. My service dog is costing me a total of $19,500. I am working with Errorless Service Dogs, my training program that is training and boarding Smidge, my service dog, and I must be able to afford her within 8 months from October 2023.

When I was in high school, I became a victim of physical, mental, and sexual abuse for over two years. My abuser was someone I knew and trusted, who both silenced my voice with threats and made me fear for my life. Mid 2022, I began experiencing symptoms of PTSD. A few months later, I received a severe PTSD diagnosis.

As of right now, I currently fight against PTSD in my day-to-day life that make it incredibly difficult for me to function and live. My condition has worsened and my PTSD has become a progressive disability in the last year. I now have dangerous health risks, including loss of vision, fainting episodes, and blood pressure shifts during my episodes. I am at risk for worsening health the longer I go without a life-saving psychiatric service animal. I have been house become near-impossible through flashbacks and obsessive, controlling thoughts. These episodes are unpredictable and have rendered me completely helpless when experiencing them.

Over the summers, I live in Skagway, Alaska seasonally and work as a naturalist on boats giving tours. I adore my job as the boats are my only safe zone from my PTSD because of constant interaction with guests and shifting stimuli. I also work 14-hour days to try to afford my service dog. On my days off when I am not in my safe zone with the boats, I constantly fight against my episodes with loss of vision

My education is currently postponed so I can pay off my student loans and due to a worsening disability, and I am struggling with work and functioning to try to afford Smidge. $12,000 can successfully help me afford a portion of my dog's cost, while I can work on paying monthly for the rest of the cost without pulling out another loan.

Some of the costs involved in Smidge's student loans, and treat my PTSD while saving from my job.

Smidge is being trained to alert for panic attacks using scent (cortisol), use Deep Pressure Therapy, act as a buffer/guard in social situations, interrupt panic behaviors, and signal to me to give me a way out of a stressful social encounter. Although I am in PTSD-intensive EMDR therapy, my PTSD is complex and hard to fight with only medication and therapy. My therapist, psychiatrist, and primary care doctor have determined that a prescribed service dog would prevent me from these behaviors when not in therapy and allow me to work and visit public Unfortunately, you can't really find any good pictures of his Gofundme, he immediately deleted when Tebbysweet called him out about it. Her account does have the pics, once again, (here).

But I want to draw your attention to these tweets from Milo:

⚠️TW: Descriptions of sexual assault.⚠️

⚠️TW: Descriptions of sexual assault.⚠️

ado... @irl_ · May 13, 2023

TW: Mentions of s*xual, physical, mental, and emotional abuse, death threats, manipulation, worst of the COVID-19 pandemic, and PTSD

1 45

ado... @irl_ · May 13, 2023

When I was 17, I was in an incredibly abusive relationship with my ex-boyfriend. He not only hurt me physically, but he s*xually assulted me numerous times, was wildly violent to the point o threatening my life, and emotionally attacked every part of my interpersonal corner (1)

1 41

ador... @irl_ · Jul 13, 2023

I am an abuse survivor who survived emotional, sexual, and physical abuse from a close friend when I was a teenager. This individual threatened my life and deliberately attacked every facade of me and my personality to boost his own ego and use me as an object for his betterment.

1 3 116

ador... @irl_ · Jul 13, 2023

I am in a dire need for a service dog, as my severe PTSD is progressive. I've started experiencing fainting during my dissociative episodes that is putting my health at risk without a medical service animal that could detect & help prevent episodes faster than I or my loved ones.

1 1 3 159

ador... @irl_ · Jul 13, 2023

I am a college student, author, and seasonal worker trying to survive & afford this dog. I have all documents, a medical prescription for a service dog, and my application complete; I am literally just trying to afford my initial down payment for my animal and really need help.

1 2 90

ador... @irl_ · Jun 17, 2023

one year anniversary of my Yellowstone floods ptsd and so far I'm surviving by jumping on horseback in the middle of the rainforest and dancing in the gym let's fuckin GOOOOOOOO

1 1 6 190

First, about his PTSD from surviving a flood:

That TikTok is (here) and his little happy "come with me" through Yellowstone video is,(here). Then months later, the story changes and he made it seem like his housing was under water, (here).

Second, is there more weird instances like this? Yes, but I think by now we have learned enough about his pattern of behavior so, I don't feel like I need to really address anything else. You can scroll down his twitter account and look at some of the things he has posted about his "symptoms."

Not debating, just putting what we have seen in the screenshots above in one place:

- The SA happened in college by, seemingly, a stranger.
- The SA happened in HS by a boyfriend.
- The SA happened in HS by a close friend.
- Leaving his house is nearly impossible.
- He does not feel safe in grocery stores or in new environments.
- His PTSD "episodes" cause loss of vision, fainting, and blood pressure shifts.
- His "episodes" are sporadic and renders him COMPLETELY helpless.
- He works 14 hour shifts without any issues because his sporadic "episodes" are held off there.
- Without his service he can't work or visit the public.
- His service animal is supposed alert him to his sporadic "episodes" and act as a buffer as he navigates social interactions and the world.

Milo went to Finland, on a tourist visa, for the first time to meet a internet friend.

In the words of Monsieur Ternaux (phatburd), where is the dog?

COMPILED BY ANATOLE TERNAUX - HTTP://DEADFRENCHMEN.RIP